ABOUT ONE THOUSAND TEAK TREES, each girthing six feet, at five feet from the ground, and averaging 50 cubic feet of wood in all, are now available in the Beiraghar Reserve of the Melghat of Berar, besides numbers of both teak and other kinds.
The forest is connected by good roads with the town of Ellichpur in Berar. The trees are marked by the Forest Department, and will be sold by auction as they stand. An upset price will be put upon each tree. The Forest Department will at once fell each tree without cost to the purchaser, but the purchaser must make all arrangements at his own risk and cost for the cutting up and removal of the trees beyond the limits of the Melghat. Passes will be granted for each cartload removed, and these passes will clear the purchaser from all payments at the line of Melghat Nakas. Purchasers will be required to obey all orders given to them or their agents regarding rules for the management and protection of the forests from fire and other harm, and will be liable for any damage or harm wilfully or negligently caused by them or their agents. Money terms cash, except by special arrangements with large purchasers.

BOMBAY

TO-DAY.

Arrival of the Rao of Kutch. Apollo Bunder, 7 a.m.

VESSELS ARRIVED.—The following vessels arrived on the 13th:—Pachumba (s), from Karachi; and Goa (s), Bussein. Yesterday:—Ravensa (s), from Shanghai; Waverley (s), Cardiff; Juddea (s), London; and Atrato (s), Sunderland.

THE CATHEDRAL CHORAL FESTIVAL.—The Choral Festival at St. Thomas's Cathedral has been fixed for Wednesday, the 24th, at 5-30 p.m.

MATRICULATION EXAMINATION.—The Matriculation Examination of the Bombay University begins to-day in a spacious marque erected on the seaside near the Marine Lines railway station.

THE BYCULLA BACHELORS' BALL.—The bachelors of Byculla gave a ball on Saturday evening in a bungalow lent for the occasion on the Foras Road. The hall was tastefully decorated with foliage and bunting, and over the gateway hung the Royal coat-of-arms. About eighty people were present.

CHARITABLE PARSEES.—Messrs. Pestonjee Hormusjee Cama and Sorabjee Shapurjee Bengalee, C.I.E., have, in consideration of their charity and public benefactions, been elected honorary life members of Lodge "Rising Star" of Western India, the oldest and most influential native Lodge in this country.

ARRIVALS OF NATIVE CHIEFS.—Shunkur Rao, Pundit Sushby, 1st Class Sirdar of Bhore, arrived here on Saturday morning, and has taken up his residence in a bungalow at Girgaum Back Road.—The Raja of Limri arrived on the same day, and is residing at Nepean Sea Road, in Mr. Cowasjee Jehangier's small bungalow.

THE BOMBAY HOMŒOPATHIC CHARITABLE DISPENSARY.—The total attendance of patients treated in this institution during the month of October 1886 was 1,278, consisting of 470 males, 522 females and 286 children, out of which 1,026 were Hindoos, 249 Parsees and 3 Musalmans. The daily average was 41·548.

LOST PROPERTY.—Brigade Surgeon F. J. Orton reported to the police on Friday, the loss of a small pocket book, containing six currency notes for Rs. 10 each, and one for Rs. 5, which he had accidentally dropped sometime during two trips he had made from the shore to the troopship Crocodile on that day.

DROWNED.—An inquest was held by the coroner yesterday at the morgue, Cammatteepoora, touching the death of Rungee, a girl, aged 13 years. Deceased, while washing her clothes in a quarry hole at the Byculla Flats at about 8 o'clock yesterday morning, accidentally fell in, and was drowned before any assistance could be rendered. A verdict of accidental death by drowning was recorded.

FALL FROM A SCAFFOLDING.—Dhondoo Gopal, a bricklayer, on Saturday afternoon, at about 2 o'clock, while standing on a scaffolding and whitewashing a house near by Dady Sheth's Agiary, Fort, accidentally overbalanced and fell from a height of about 25 feet, and sustained severe injuries to his head. He was at once removed to the Goculdas Tejpal Hospital, where he is lying in a precarious state.

FOUND DEAD.—An inquest was held by the coroner on Saturday, at Jackaria Bunder, touching the deaths of Mahomed Poonja, aged 25 years, and Imaum Tamajee, aged 30 years. It appears that on the night previous they went to sleep on a lime-kiln, where they were both found dead on the following morning. The verdict was that the death of the two deceased was caused by their having been suffocated by gases from a lime-kiln while sleeping on it.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—Mr. Hallums, a driver in the employ of the G. I. P. Railway, met with a serious accident yesterday morning. It appears that while driving the down train to Kurjat yesterday morning his right arm was fractured by an open door of a passenger train which was coming up to Bombay, striking it. The train was stopped, and Mr. Hallums was removed immediately to the Lanowli Hospital.

THEFT OF LIQUOR.—At the Fort Police Court on Saturday, Inspector Saunders charged Narayen Makoo, before Mr. Cooper, with stealing a bottle of old-tom. The accused entered the bar-room of the Imperial Hotel when the waiter was out of the room, and opened a cupboard stored with sundry bottles of spirits, taking from it a bottle of gin. Just then the waiter entered, and on seeing him, the accused hastily dropped the bottle and ran away; but was subsequently arrested by a ramoosee. Pleading guilty to the charge, and admitting numerous previous convictions, he was sentenced to one year's hard labor.

CRIMINAL TRESPASS.—Krishna Govind was on Saturday convicted by Mr. Dossbhoy Framjee of trespassing in the dwelling house of Tai, woman, at Carpenter Street, on the night previous, with a criminal intent. About a few days ago the husband of the woman left for Hyderabad, and the accused, who resided in the adjoining room, and who was aware of his absence, on Friday at midnight entered her room through a window, when she observed him and raised an alarm. Accused effected his escape by jumping out of another window, and in doing so fell, on which he was arrested and handed over to the police. Accused pleaded guilty to the charge, and was sentenced to three months' rigorous imprisonment.

A CONCERT OF NATIVE MUSIC.—Another of the series of concerts, arranged by Mr. K. N. Kabrajee and some of his friends, came off last Saturday night at the Framjee Cowasjee Institute. Three Mahomedan musicians of renown were to appear on the occasion, but some disappointment was felt owing to the unavoidable absence of one of them, who is regarded as a master of instrumental music. But the singing of Anayet Hossein Khan, who is gifted with a rich, mellow voice was a treat which fully made up for the absence of the instrumentalist. In arranging these concerts, Mr. Kabrajee's object is to encourage professors of native music and, at the same time, to cultivate a taste for scientific music among natives.

THE DECCAN COLLEGE.—Mr. K. L. Nulkar writes to us in regard to the meeting to petition against the abolition of the Deccan College:—"I did not propose that the college should be handed over to the managers of the Fergusson College instead of a Missionary body. What I did propose was that to the memorial which was adopted at the meeting might be added a para., that if it was determined by Government to hand over the College to the Deccan Education Society, the funds hitherto spent by Government on that College should also be handed over to that body in their entirety, and that it might be stipulated that at least two of the professors employed by that body should be properly qualified Englishmen. The meeting in question was one of the general public of Poona, and not of the Sarvajanik Sabha."

TELEGRAPHIC WEATHER REPORT.

SIMLA, Nov. 13.—The barometric changes are generally inconsiderable. The general pressure and distribution is unaltered. The pressure is lower in Guzerat, the Deccan, Western Bengal, Orissa and the Northern Circars than elsewhere. It is considerably above the average in Southern India. The winds are irregular in most Provinces but normal. There is a westerly current, tolerably steady, in North-western India, Behar and down to the Gangetic Delta. The air is very dry in North-Western India. The weather is partially cloudy in parts of Madras, Guzerat, south of Bengal, Assam and Burma. It is clear elsewhere. There has been no important rainfall except at Quetta. The lowest temperature this morning was 39 deg at Rawul Pindi.

The families and others not accompanying head-quarters, or proceeding to their homes, to be sent to Surat by rail from Pahlunpore. Camp equipage to be taken by the regiment.

24TH REGIMENT BOMBAY INFANTRY.

Embark at Bombay on the 2nd December, arrive at Kurrachee on the 4th idem, move thence by rail en route to Quetta. The families and others, who do not accompany head-quarters, or proceed to their homes to be sent by rail to Surat. Camp equipage to be taken by the regiment.

20TH REGIMENT BOMBAY INFANTRY.

Move by rail from Quetta District for embarkation at Kurrachee on the 10th December 1886, arrive at Bombay on the 13th idem, whence the regiment will be moved by rail to Pahlunpore and march by route No. 121 (1) to Deesa. The families and details at Surat to be sent by rail and road to Deesa under arrangements to be made by the General Officer, Commanding Northern Division. Camp equipage will accompany the regiment to Deesa.

17TH REGIMENT BOMBAY INFANTRY.

Move by rail from Quetta District for embarkation at Kurrachee on the 19th December 1886, arrive at Bombay on the 22nd idem, where the regiment is to be stationed. The families and details at Surat to be moved by rail to Bombay, under arrangements to be made by the General Officer Commanding Bombay District and Northern Division. Camp equipage to accompany the regiment to Bombay.

14TH REGIMENT BOMBAY INFANTRY.

The order for the move of this regiment, issued under No. 3789 of the 27th ultimo, are superseded by the following:—

Move by rail from Quetta District for embarkation at Kurrachee on 27th December 1886, arrive at Mandvi on 29th idem, whence the regiment will march by route No. 88 to Bhuj. Camp equipage to accompany the regiment. The families, &c., to be moved by rail from Surat for embarkation at Bombay on the 15th November 1886, arrive at Mandvi on the following day, whence their onward move to Bhuj will be arranged for by the General Officer Commanding Northern Division.

The families of enlisted men and enlisted public followers of native corps moving to Quetta are allowed passage to their homes by sea and rail at the public expense, on the understanding that, on the return of the regiment to India, such families will have to join the corps at their own expense.

BOMBAY PORT TRUST.

THE following are excerpts from the proceedings of a meeting of the Trustees of the Port of Bombay, held on the 9th inst.:—

"Submitted letter from the Municipal Commissioner, dated 30th August, adhering to the demand formerly made by him with regard to the drainage of Mody Bay, south of Fort Street, viz., that if it be taken into the Mint Road drain, then that the connection with that drain be made by the Trustees, and forwarding to the Trustees the opinion of counsel upon the rights of the Municipality in the matter.

Resolution.—As the additional cost of extending the drains to connect with the sewer in Mint Road is comparatively so small, amounting to Rs. 711 only, the Trustees agree to incur this further expenditure; but on the distinct understanding that their thus consenting to construct drains beyond their own limits must not be considered as a precedent in any future case. The estimated expenditure for constructing the Mody Bay drains, south of Fort Street, viz., Rs. 23,116, is sanctioned, and the work should be taken in hand as soon a possible.

Read letter from Mr. Sooliman Tharoo, dated 19th October, representing that cranage charge is levied upon horses landed at the bunders even when they are landed at the slopes without the aid of cranes, and asking that the levy of cranage in such circumstances should cease. Read report by Traffic Manager, dated 25th October, stating that the landing of horses at the crane or at the slope has hitherto been optional, that as to land them at the slope is a source of danger to people working there, the practice has as much as possible been discouraged; and he recommends that it be now stopped altogether, seeing that a claim has been advanced to a differential rate.

Resolution.—As recommended by the Bunders Committee, the wharfage charge on horses, landed at the Bunders, should be made uniform, whether the cranes are used or whether horses are landed at the slopes. Subject to the sanction of Government, item No. 332 of the wharfage rates, horses should be increased from 8 annas to Re. 1; and by altering No. 14 of the miscellaneous rates appended to the wharfage rates as follows:—'Cranage fees. No. 14. These fees will be charged as follows: Horses, included in wharfage. Cows and buffaloes each 8 annas; and so on, the other cranage charges remaining as at present.' The Traffic Manager should be requested to arrange so that horses are not landed at the passenger slope, when passengers in any large number are using it.

Read memo. from the Secretary to Government, Marine Department, dated 2nd October 1886, forwarding correspondence regarding the widening of a portion of the Malet Strand Road, for which the Trustees agreed to give the land in exchange for a portion of the Government land between Malet Bunder and Wadi Bunder. The correspondence shows that the Municipal Commissioner cannot undertake the widening of the road until the Malet Strand and other roads in that neighbourhood are vested in the Municipality; and the Public Works Department inquire whether arrangements cannot at once be made by the Trustees for handing over to the Municipality the portion of Malet Strand under reference, in order that the road may be widened and the exchange of land effected without further delay. Read memo. from the Engineer, dated 3rd November, submitting an estimate of the cost of putting in good condition the roads at Malet Bunder to be handed over to the Municipality. It amounts to Rs. 8,680 including avoiding the drains, and Rs. 4,708, exclusive of that work.

Resolution.—Government should be informed that as it will take some time to prepare the roads in the neighbourhood of Malet Bunder for transfer to the Municipality, and as it is desirable, to carry out the widening of the road referred to by Government, and the transfer of the land to be received in exchange as soon as practicable, the Trustees will widen the road at the cost of the Trust, and the estimated expenditure, Rs. 391, is sanctioned accordingly. The Municipal Commissioner should be asked whether the Engineer's proposals with regard to preparing the roads for transfer are such as meet his approval, and the hope of the Trustees should be expressed that for the reason given by the Engineer, the avoiding of the sewers will not be insisted on. Should the reply be satisfactory the work may be proceeded with at the estimated cost of Rs. 4,708.

The following were amongst the papers laid on the table:—

Report by Traffic Manager, dated 2nd November, that a fire broke out on the previous day by which a row of cartmen's huts on the Elphinstone Estate was burnt down, loss estimated at Rs. 150, origin of fire supposed to be careless use of lights. Report by Traffic Manager, dated 3rd November, that a fire broke out on 2nd instant, at Powder Works Bunder, in a jowlie roofed shed containing firewood, loss estimated at Rs. 50, cause of fire supposed to be some one throwing a lighted bidie on roof. Report by Traffic Manager that Rs. 1,538-12 was collected at Sion and Mahim on toll on carts on behalf of Municipality between 1st and 31st October.

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD-LIVER OIL.—In Throat Diseases its efficacy is unequalled. Sir G. Duncan Gibb, Bart., M.D., Physician to the Westminster Hospital, writes:—"The value of Dr. de Jongh's Cod-Liver Oil as a therapeutic agent in a number of diseases, chiefly of an exhaustive character, has been admitted by the world of medicine; but, in addition, I have found it a remedy of great power in the treatment of many Affections of the Throat and Larynx, especially in Consumption of the latter, where it will sustain life when everything else fails." Sold only in capsuled Imperial half-pints, pints and quarts, by all chemists, druggists, and store-keepers. Sole consignees, Ansar, Harford, and Co., 810, High Holborn London.

HINDOO SOCIAL REFORM.

MR. ILBERT has addressed the following letter to Mr. Malabari:—

I have had many conversations with you and others about your proposals of social reform, and you have often asked me to put in writing my views on the subject. If I have hesitated to do so, it has not been for want of sympathy with your efforts and objects, but because the region into which you have invited me is, for an outsider and a foreigner, strewn with pitfalls.

That the social position of women is one of the surest tests of civilization, and that the institutions of infant marriage and enforced widowhood are incompatible with the position, which women ought to occupy in a perfectly civilized society, these are propositions which command a ready assent. But when you ask me how far the particular remedies proposed by you are likely to be suitable or effectual, by what methods of coercion or persuasion the Hindoo family system, Hindoo beliefs and Hindoo usages can best be adapted to modern notions about the position of women, and at what point the process should be begun—you take me out of my depth.

Consequently there are very few of the issues raised by your notes, about which I can express an opinion.

I do not think a sufficient case has yet been made out for legislative interference. I do not wish to suggest that Indian legislation cannot influence, or is not materially influencing Hindu usages, beliefs, and opinions, or to dogmatize about the limits within which such influence can be usefully or effectually applied.

But after having considered very carefully the suggestions for legislation put forward at various times by yourself, by Mr. Ranade and others, I have come to the conclusion that most of them lie beyond the proper sphere of legislation, and that no one of them has yet received that kind or amount of support from representative opinion which would justify a legislature in interfering with laws or customs relating to marriage, and to which the Indian legislature was able to appeal when it passed Act XV, of 1856. In saying this, I do not forget the short and easy method of dealing with infant marriage which has been suggested by my eminent predecessor, Mr. Whitley Stokes.

Nor do I think that much can be done by executive regulations, or by the action of Government officials as such.

The Government of India has caused your notes to be circulated among the officers of the different local Governments and Administrations, and has through them collected a body of opinion which may, I hope, before long be published, and which should be useful to you and your friends in determining the course which you should take, and in enabling you to estimate the kind of support which you are likely to receive. I doubt whether the Government can, with advantage, do more for your assistance under existing circumstances.

The Propaganda to which you have so nobly devoted yourself demands missionary efforts and missionary enthusiasm. Any appearance or suspicion of undue official interference is more likely to retard than to advance your cause.

I have followed with the greatest interest the reports of your recent progress through the towns of Northern India, and I see in the reception which you have met with every ground for encouragement.

Experience shows that Indian customs and usages are not the unchangeable phenomena which they were once believed to be. What is remarkable about them is the rapidity and unexpectedness with which they occasionally give way under new influences. A belief or a custom, which seems to be firm and immoveable as a rock, suddenly topples over and disappears, without previous warning, like an iceberg which has drifted into a southern sea. The prejudice which was once believed to be a fatal obstacle to the prospect of Indian railways has thus disappeared. The prejudice against crossing the sea seems destined to share its fate.

Few sights have struck me more since I have been in India than that of a large evening, party at which I was present when I was at Bombay last winter, and at which English and Parsee ladies and gentlemen mingled as they might in a London drawing-room. I was told that such a sight would not be possible in any other part of India, and that it would not have been possible in Bombay a generation ago. There is no reason in the nature of things why changes as great as those which have taken place in your own lifetime in the beliefs, opinions and customs of your own Parsee community, should not take place in the beliefs, opinions and customs of your Hindoo fellow-countrymen, without any assistance from the Government, except that of ready and sympathetic recognition.

THE NATIVE PRESS.

THE REJECTED ADDRESS AT AHMEDABAD.

AHMEDABAD has shown another of those thoughtless steps which have lately characterised a few Hindoos in political matters. One municipal address from the city to H. E. the Viceroy was enough. But Messrs. Becherdas Ambaidas, Maiputram Roopram and others did not think so. They got up a document, which, though ostensibly an address to the Viceroy, was nothing more or less than a budget of grievances. The "address" presumes to advise the Viceroy as to how he should act in State matters, and he is taken to task for giving too much importance to empty shows. To verify this principle as it were, the rich shetts of Ahmedabad subscribed amongst themselves the magnificent sum of Rs. 150 to defray the expenses of welcoming the Viceroy.—Rast Goftar.

SIR WILLIAM WEDDERBURN, BART.

SIR W. WEDDERBURN leaves Bombay for England by next mail. We regret exceedingly to have to announce that the report of his final retirement from service on his return from this short leave is only too true. Though Sir William's service has been extending over nearly 26 years, we do not remember any Government official, after the late Sir Erskine Perry, who won the hearts of natives so completely as he has succeeded in doing. We have not the slightest doubt that the pain of parting from him will be felt by the whole India, from one end to the other. Before Sir William Wedderburn we do not know of any British official who considered India as made for the Indians, and who honestly believed in this principle and acted on it.—Rast Goftar.

RE KING THEEBAW.

IF the expectations suddenly formed of the Indian Government looking with a favourable eye to the State of King Theebaw come to pass, the native public will be delighted. If, as is stated, he can prove that he was the unfortunate tool of his designing ministers during the recent squabble with the British, it is not unlikely that things might take a favourable turn yet.—Kaisar-i-Hind.

PARSEES AND PERSIANS.

WHY trouble about the Persian medals and their recipients? If they manage their business properly, it rests entirely between givers and takers. It strikes us, however, that instead of medals and letters of congratulation, the Persian authorities might in future send to the Parsees a number of free passports and offer practical facilities to travellers intending to visit the country.—Indian Spectator.

CANDID ADVICE.

The Indian Spectator says:—We wish the apprehension were now allayed as to this Commission being intended to close the doors of the competitive Civil Service on natives of India. There is not a tittle of evidence that we can see to support such a theory. We say the Government of India cannot do what they are suspected as likely to do, apart from the fact that they have not the slightest intention of taking such a retrograde step. That there are writers who have been suggesting such a course may not be doubted. But that is no reason why the native press should excite itself to such an extent as to father the opinion of irresponsible publicists on responsible authorities in India and England. The Commission will be shortly preparing their interrogatory. Let us try and help them in framing the questions, and let us see that the questions are sent to a large body of representative men in India for suggestions. Let us formulate our grievances in a manly self-respecting spirit, if we wish to have them redressed. Let us ask Government to publish all the papers that they make over to the Commission. In short, let us try to know exactly how the land lies, and then let us meet the Commission half way without fears and misgivings. Nothing could be so mal apropos in the case as an appeal to the nation to "rise to a man"—to "awake, arise, or for ever fallen be." The nation is blissfully oblivious of what is happening. And if it "awakes" for a week or two, it is only to it knows not again for a decade. Even when it rises go to sleep how to stand together. What will the nation do by rising to a man or falling to a woman? It must be taught to be always awake and up to work. Here is a grand opportunity. The question that has just been opened up may not be re-opened for another half century. We cannot help feeling that if the labours of the Public Service Commission do not end in substantial good to India, more than half the fault will be our own.

THE LATE MR. GIBBS.

THE people of India, of all ranks and classes, have lost a true friend by the death of Mr. Gibbs, and the Government of India a trusty counsellor and guide. Of Mr. Gibbs's early career we know little except what has appeared in the well-informed dailies. But as Member of Council and Vice-Chancellor of the University at Bombay, and as Member of the Supreme Government, we have watched his work with increasing respect and confidence. More useful than in his official capacity were his unbought services as a peace-maker, as a friend of Native Chiefs, of workers for the public good, of orphans and widows, of those who had seen better days. In female education, and progress and reform generally, he took the liveliest interest. It may not be known that he was mainly instrumental in obtaining a recognition from the Government of India of their duty to give an impetus to social reform. Of few men could it be so truly said as of Maharaja James Gibbs, that he lived a life of active benevolence, and died full of years and honours.—Indian Spectator.

THE VICEROY'S TOUR.

Native Opinion says:—The only hitch that may be said to have occurred in this triumphal procession from Simla to Bombay happened, it is said, at Ahmedabad, the chief city of British Guzerath. There it is said that the Municipality sanctioned only Rs. 150 for the expenses of his reception, while the citizens sent to him an address which was more plain spoken than what an address of welcome reception in the opinion of some ought to be. But not withstanding any thing that is said about this so-called poor reception, we refuse to call it poor, and we are sure our Viceroy does not consider it to be so. The cordiality of a welcome is not to our mind to be measured by the particular amount of money spent; but is always to be guaged by the feeling with which it is spent. But that does not seem to be the way of thinking of some of our Anglo-Indian journals. They seem to think that the city which spends most money must be taken to be the most loyal. We entirely differ from his view, not only because it is an incorrect one, but because it is also ungenerous and impolitic. If it be once understood abroad, that any loyalty would be estimated by the amount of money that would be spent on the Viceroy's reception, it would greatly mar the effects of a Viceroy's tour. These tours are not held, if we are correct, with the sole object of drawing forth and converting into smoke a large amount of the savings of cities and individuals: They are undergone in order that the representative of her Majesty may have an occasion to see and come into touch with, the different parts of this great Empire, and learn personally the wants and wishes of her Majesty's subjects. In fact we thought and yet think that these tours are meant rather for the benefit and joy of the people than for giving them an opportunity for squandering away a large amount of their money. We do not at all mean to say that the people on their part should not do their utmost in giving the best welcome they can to the representative of their Sovereign. But what we do not like is the idea that the occasion of the Viceroy's visit should be made the cause of taxing heavily the resources of the subjects; and what we most dislike is that the Viceregal tour should give an incentive to invidious comparisons and even to censures for having spent less than what you are expected to spend by the Anglo-Indians.

BENGAL.

THE LORD ULICK BROWNE MEMORIAL FUND.—The exact amount of the Lord Ulick Browne Fund is now Rs. 2,995. Besides the large subscriptions of the Maharani Surnomyi and the Nawab of Murshidabad, liberal sums have been received from Rai Meg Raj Bahadur of Asimganj; Buah Sing Dhooduria and Bissen Chand Dhoodria, of Asimganj; Nawab Ashunoollah of Dakka; the Maharaja of Kuch Behar; Maharani Surat Sundory Daby, and Mohima Runjun Roy Chowdry.

THE WEATHER.—The three hottest days in Calcutta in October were the 13th, 15th, and 17th, when the temperature was 86·5 ○; the coldest day was the 31st when it was 73·59. The total rainfall of the month was 3·91 inches, the average fall for the last 48 years being 5·91 inches. Rain fell on 12 days during the month; the average number of rainy days being 10. There were 239 hours of bright sunshine during the month out of a possible 359 hours.

RIOTS IN INDIA.

THE following remarks, contributed by one who "knows a good deal of the subject," appear in the St. James's Gazette:—

The riots that have taken place at Delhi and Etawa suggest one or two points for grave consideration. Events of the kind now reported serve to remind us that past dangers may recur almost as suddenly, if not quite so menacingly, as at the time of the sepoy rebellion. A few more religious riots at other places in Northern India, occurring simultaneously, might tax the resources of the Government more severely than Anglo-Indians like to admit. A series of mistakes on our part—and we are still capable of blundering—would rapidly develop an embarrassment into a peril. What has happened at Delhi may to some extent be imagined from the recollection of a similar, but less troublesome, outbreak which took place at another large city in the Punjaub a year ago. This was at Lahore, where I was then living.

Then, as now, Mahommedans and Hindoos had both a religious celebration on hand; involving noisy processions through the narrow streets, the beating of innumerable drums, much weeping and wailing on the part of Mahommedans over the fate of Hussein and Hussain, rejoicings by Hindoos in memory of Rama's affection for Sita, and a universal feeling of popular excitement. The local authorities had endeavoured to arrange before hand with the leading representatives of either faith a programme so drawn up as to prevent one procession clashing with another, and so forth. From what I ascertained afterwards, one or two wealthy Hindoos considered their advice had not been received with proper deference; whilst one Mahommedan gentleman, especially, was consulted, whose opinion it would have been wiser to ignore. However this may be, each side, while professing the utmost readiness to support the local magistrates, tried in a hundred irritating ways to provoke the other into a breach of the peace. At last, when the celebrations had actually begun, a Mahommedan priest, just as a Hindoo procession was passing, denounced infidels and all enemies of the Prophet with such insulting emphasis that a free fight ensued. The most exasperating language was used by both parties, heads were broken, and, when the police did succeed in scattering the crowd, it seemed likely that the tumult would be renewed later on with tenfold violence. All the shops in the city were closed; the Mahommedans declared that the Hindoos meant to slay them all that same night, while the Hindoos made strenuous preparations for what they vowed, would need to be a desperate resistance against the bloodthirsty cow-killing Mahommedans. The streets were thronged with a tumultuous mob, and the few Englishmen, whose duty it is to represent the supremacy of British rule, found neither remonstrance nor threats of any avail, without a display of armed force. The mob was altogether out of hand.

Up till lately, a large body of mounted native police had been kept up in the Punjaub; but this, for reasons of economy, has been abolished. Its absence was grievously felt at Lahore last year, and, I make no doubt, has proved quite as deplorable at Delhi now. At Lahore, as at Delhi, it was found necessary to call out the troops; and it was fortunate in Lahore that a detachment of that fine regiment, the 14th Bengal Lancers, came over from the cantonment at Mianmir with commendable promptitude. The spectacle of a disciplined force, small though it was, under British officers, had a soothing effect immediately; and a further outbreak was averted. Nevertheless, this fact was made evident to the native mind—that order cannot always be maintained without the help of British troops; and it may come to pass, if not at Lahore or Delhi, elsewhere, that no troops may be available. Only an accident enabled the magistrate at Etawa to obtain this much-needed support. The timely arrival of a troop-train with troops en route for Burma averted a disaster of which the consequences might have been as widespread as they would be alarming. There are several centres of possible disturbance in Upper India, and should the elements of disorder burst into activity all at once, in more than one of them the need for repressive measures might prove greater than the supply. Delhi, Lahore Umritsar, Mooltan, Allahabad, Meerut, and, most of all, Lucknow are such centres. It behoves us, then, to inquire, in the first place, whether nothing has been left undone to prevent disturbances arising; and, secondly, whether the means at our disposal for repressing them are in fairly good working order.

From recent personal experience I can only speak of the state of things in the Punjaub. As regards the first point, I venture to assert that of late years the cordial relations that formerly existed between the worthiest representatives of native society and Government officials have been impaired. The men whom Government now delights to honour, and strives, too often vainly, to conciliate, are the self-elected voluble champions of young India, whose English education in no way compensates for an utter want of real regard for us, such as we still find, I am glad to say, in many of the old school. The ill-judged extension of local self-government has done much to alienate the more respectable class, and to foment, instead of check, a spirit of insubordination to authority and impatience of lawful restraint only too visible in such occurrences as that at Delhi. The other point I wish to notice is the inefficiency of the Punjaub police. The pay of the men is inadequate, and the force is recruited from the dregs of the populace. This is one of the scandals of our administration, and throws much discredit on the Government. We are pleased to believe that British rule, conferred vast benefits on India. Those who live in the Punjaub know that an underpaid police force means an undeniable prevalence of crime and a painful suspicion of police misconduct—ill-treatment of innocent people, fabrication of evidence, and so forth—in ordinary times, and in an emergency like the present, an utter collapse in the face of danger.

THE CYCLE AS A WAR STEED.

THE French army manœuvres recently closed, and the Austrian field practices that preceded them, were remarkable for the use that was made of the bicycle as an adjunct to war. Adverse criticism has so freely been bestowed upon suggestions of this character in the past, that it was probably astonishing information that the experiments were entirely successful. With the Austrian army a trained corps from the regular troops was engaged in the special service. The French army was accompanied by a band of civilians, bicyclists of experience. The reading public have been enlightened as to the work upon which the Austrians were occupied—work that was most satisfactorily performed, even on rough ground. The unreasonable suspicions of the French, who scent Germany in all inquiries as to their forces, will probably effectually debar any information being forthcoming as to the part played by their Corps Valocipedique. It may be gathered that their aid was not unavailing from the honours paid to the wheelmen, and the compliments they received from official quarters. Two of the great Continental Powers have thus practicaly shown that they recognize in the cycle an invention capable of adding to the methods of modern warfare, and with cycling making great progress in Germany, it may safely be supposed that the time is near at hand when these machines will be on military trial in the Fatherland.

The difficulties—real or assumed—that were at one time held to be fatal to all proposals to utilize the cycle, have in a great measure now disappeared. There was a substantial foundation—in theory, at least—in the argument that a fallen tree or a load of stones would disorganize in a moment the finest cycling corps that could be got together. Much of that argument has since proved fallacious, and the bicycle still the only apparently suitable subject for experiment, it would yet be worth while to submit it to the test. Its use in the Austrian and French manœuvres and Stevens's adventurous journey round the world have shown how marvellously the obstacles urged by theorists melt away when practice is brought in to aid vindication. The field of choice to-day, however, is not a limited one. The bicycle remains, but its old-time exclusiveness is gone. It is not even in itself confined to a single variety. There is the ordinary pattern of surpassing lightness and wonderful speed, a tremendous advance upon its serviceable but clumsy predecessor; and now we have the safties, or small-wheeled specimens, sturdy little steeds, capable of any amount of work in almost any service. Then there is the marvellous development of the tricycle, which, more than anything, has brought the application of the cycle to military employment within the scope of practical politics, and this class of machine is also divided and subdivided into numerous distinguishing orders, of which the main divisions are singles and doubles. Thus a plethora of material is open to experiment.

The good roads that to a great degree are to be found in the United Kingdom, and the passable ones for the most part appertaining to European countries, render the cycle particularly capable of service in home defence and Continental aggression; for it is upon good roads that the cycle is best able to demonstrate its capabilities. Yet it must not be assumed that the modern machine is only available for service in this direction. A strongly-built tricycle, with an efficient

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE

SATURDAY EVENING, Nov. 13.

THE further rise of ¼ in Consols to 101⅛, reported by Reuter this morning, would appear to indicate that on the Stock Exchange at least a feeling of confidence is steadily gaining ground. The recovery from the lowest point of a month ago is ⅞ per cent., an important movement, when we allow for the fact that money at the same time has risen ½ per cent. in the open market. Rupee Paper in London yesterday advanced ½ in Fours, ¼ in 4½ per cents., Bar Silver being still quoted at 46⅝d.; but to-day we learn the quotation is advanced to 46-11-16d. per oz.

In the London Produce markets yesterday Seeds were all unaltered in value, but Wheat was firm and 3d. per quarter higher for No. 2 Club. From Liverpool Reuter reports a rise of 2d. per cental in Bombay Soft White, a rise, however, which may be said to have been practically anticipated here from the fact of Rupee prices having been so firmly supported in the face of the advance in Exchange.

Cotton in Liverpool yesterday closed firm with sales of 10,000 bales, including 700 Surats, but Spot prices were unchanged, and Americans to arrive were 1-64d. to 1-32d. per lb. lower. To-day's report, however, shows a much improved tone, the sales being estimated at 12,000 bales, of which 1,000 are Surats, the market closing strong with an advance of 1-16d. in Americans, both on the Spot and to Arrive. The improvement evidently had its rise in the States, New York yesterday having advanced 1-16 cent. in Ready and 14 points in Futures, followed again to-day by a further 5 points in Futures, which now stand at 9·38 cents. per lb, for March shipment. In all probability the upward turn originates with the publication of reduced crop estimates, this being about the time that Neill Bros. and other authorities generally publish their anticipations, and should this prove to be the case, operators on this side will do well to adopt a cautious policy until the Washington Agricultural Bureau's figure are made public, which may be looked for between the 15th and 20th instant. Their latest utterances do not incate a crop of less than last year, and their estimates for some seasons past have been so reliable that they are deserving of every consideration.

We subjoin our usual weekly comparison of the statistical position of the staple with the corresponding date of the two previous years. The Liverpool stock and import figures having been mutilated in transmission, we have had to estimate them, but assuming we are approximately correct, the Spot stock will have increased by 37,000 bales, making it only 12,000 bales below last year. The visible supply for all Europe has increased by 90,000 bales during the weak, bringing it up to within 5,000 bales of the same day in 1885 and 124,000 under 1884. The American Receipts have recovered ground during the week, and on the total to date are within 10,000 bales of last season, which this season seems likely to follow pretty closely in many points of detail.

The American crop figures to date give the following comparisons with the two previous years :—

	1886	1885	1884
Week's Receipts	272,000	234,000	268,000
,, Exports to U.K.	94,000	67,000	100,000
,, ,, Continent	49,000	74,000	117,000
Total Receipts since 1st Sept.	1,880,000	1,890,400	1,952,800
,, Exports to U.K. ,,	668,000	514,200	610,000

,, Stock in the Ports	749,000	761,000	780,000
Saturday's Receipts	47,000	35,000	33,000

The total visible supply of Cotton for all Europe on the 12th instant affords the following comparisons with the two previous years :—

	1886	1885	1884
Total supply of all kinds	2,181,000	2,181,780	2,303,930
,, ,, Surats	236,000	128,810	397,070

For the United Kingdom only the figures are :—

Stock in Liverpool	382,000	393,990	443,780
,, London	17,000	19,000	55,000
American Afloat	310,000	193,000	201,000

,, Good Fair Dhollera	3¾d.	4 7-16d.	4¾d.
,, Difference	1½d.	11-16d.	1 7-16d.

Native dealers here are still the only buyers in the market except the local mills, European exporters not only holding aloof, but in some cases selling here as the dearest market at the moment. Of Bengals, which now constitute the bulk of the arrivals there are very few purchasers of any kind for nearby delivery, but natives are paying the enhanced rates demanded for January, and would also buy good Broach at Rs. 206. We quote prices as follows :—

WHEAT and SEEDS. have undergone no change in value. Of the former supplies are increasing slightly, but in many cases the qualitity is the reverse of satisfactory. Everything, however, is swept off as it comes to hand, clean or dirty, weevilled or damaged, and it will be no matter for surprise, if we shortly begin to hear a renewal of complaints from Home buyers again of the quality of Indian Wheat.

The Receipts of Produce into Bombay yesterday were :—

Cotton	2,086	bales
Wheat	37,506	cwts.
Linseed	3,918	,,
Rapeseed	5,229	,,
Gingelly	8,616

FREIGHTS exhibit no improvement in tone, 15s. 6d. to 16s. being still about the quotation for steamers open charter, 12s. 6d. for Wheat and 16s. 3d. for Cotton to Liverpool. The only business of any importance reported is about 5,000 tons Wheat, said to have been booked by the Rubbatino steamers at 17s. 6d. for 1st, 18s. 9d. for the steamer of the 20th Dec., and £1 for 10th January, all payable at 2s. Exchange.

EXCHANGE has been decidedly quieter to-day, and although nominally we repeat yesterday's rates for Ready Bills, sellers for Future delivery have refused to go on at the same level, and so far the tone is weak. Saturday however is not much to go by as a general rule, and particularly to-day, which has been more or less of a holiday, so that we should not be surprised if on Monday things were all firm again on the strength of dearer Silver. We quote :—

Bank Bills on demand	1s. 5 23-32d. per rupee
Do. Telegraphic	1s. 5 7-8d. ,,
Do. 3 months' sight	1s. 5 31-32d. ,,
Credits, 3 months' sight	1s. 6 1-8d. ,,
France, 3 months' sight	1·91½ ,,

GOVERNMENT PAPER is firm for Fours, in which business is said to have been done at Rs. 97¾. Fours-and-a-half however, are weak, and the quotation is given at Rs. 101½.

SHARES are practically unchanged, no transactions of any moment having transpired. Spinning and Weaving Mills are quiet at previous prices.

SAFETY versus DANGER.

TO buy spectacles is easy enough, but to get properly suited is another thing. Much danger, as well as inconvenience and expense, is invariably saved by consulting a leading specialist, you are invited first to try elsewhere, and then consult Mr. N. LAZARUS, whose perfect, simple and patented methods of examination have been testified to by the greatest living celebrities.

AS IMPORTERS OF

PIANOFORTES,

WE HAVE JUDGED it best to find two thoroughly competent and reliable manufacturers, one English and one German, and to stick to them. We do not say for a moment that no other maker is capable of turning out equally good work, but we have satisfied ourselves that the work of these is sound and excellent, and so with the help of the mutual adulation ticket we get along harmoniously. It is an arrangement which commends itself to us in many ways: by focusing our very considerable orders in this way, we secure the position of very firm buyers, and both expect and receive considerations which place us well in front of competition. Again, it is a decided satisfaction to confine one's dealings to a class of goods, which we know will reflect credit upon our recommendation, and content buyers. In the case of the renowned Stuttgart manufacturers, SCHIEDMAYER AND SOEHNE, when we see the public affectionately cautioned not to mistake them for an obscure opposition Schiedmayer, without any SOEHNE (as if there was the faintest chance of their doing so), we feel that our acknowledgments are due for the gratis advertisement, and are all the better satisfied with our German choice.

As a matter of fact SCHIEDMAYER AND SOEHNE'S PIANOS have been favorites with the Indian public for the last THIRTY years, that is to say, long before any struggling beginner had devised the expedient of trying to benefit by the fact, by puffing his wares under a name which sounds a good deal like the original, and may possibly deceive the unwary.

The Bombay Gazette

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1886.

THE Viceroy's reception on Saturday must have seemed to him something like a vote of confidence from the first city in India. It was in no degree less hearty than that which greeted him when he landed a stranger amongst us a little less than two years ago. He perhaps observed that in the interval a Bombay crowd had learnt, what Indian crowds are slow to learn, to cheer a visitor. His brief speech at the Bunder was a suitable reply to a very sensible address. He found no diminution in the cordiality and confidence with which he was first greeted here, and he interpreted this as an acceptance, in its main outlines, of the policy which he has followed. The Viceroy dealt briefly with one local question in regard to which Bombay feels that the Supreme Government has not shown it all the consideration that the city might look for. He was as frank on the subject as he was consolatory. The Government of India cannot guarantee our water-works loan because such a guarantee will not fit in with their financial policy, and there is no immediate prospect of their being able to be more helpful to us. This is disappointing, but it is frank, and will save us from delusions. The Corporation must go on the market on their own own account, taking with them, in lieu of the Government guarantee, the Viceroy's flattering assurance of their high reputation for wisdom and prudence. If the money market could bring itself round to Lord Dufferin's way of thinking about us, we should have no cause of complaint as to the interest that we are to pay upon our loan. But it will not do so; and we shall have, with as much content as is possible, to pay the difference between the rate of a guaranteed and an unguaranteed loan, regretting, nevertheless, that the financial policy which the Government have adopted precludes them from doing us a service that would have been of much value to us, and would practically have cost them nothing.

THE cordial terms in which the Viceroy spoke at Baroda the other day of the advance which that State had made under the rule of the present Gaekwar would have invested with special interest the recently issued administration report of the State, but for the fact that it relates to a period so far back as 1883-84. Almost simultaneously with it there comes the administration report of Cutch, the authorities of which State, not having been to deal with the "unavoidable cause" which ex-Dewan Kazi Shabudin assigns for delay in the issue of the Baroda report, are able to give before the year is out an account of their stewardship in 1885-86. The Baroda report is in most respects so satisfactory that it seems a pity that we have had so long to wait for it. The revenue came in well, yielding an increase in most departments, and shewing a gain of about seven lakhs in a total of one crore sixty-five and a quarter lakhs. There is one item on the expenditure side of the account which may be commended to some over-captious objectors to the generosity with which the native princes have received the representative of the Sovereign. It appears from the financial statement that the sum expended in the princely festivities at Baroda last week was little in

AUSTRIAN POLICY IN BULGARIA.

VIENNA, Nov. 13.

Count Kalnoky, speaking to the Hungarian Delegations, insisted on the necessity of maintaining the integrity of the Treaty of Berlin. The Kaulbars mission, he added, was a passing phase, which, if exaggerated, would render it necessary to prepare to overcome greater troubles. He endorsed the policy of Mons. Tiaza. The Austrian Government desired to avoid any menace, unless such should be absolutely necessary, and wished for peace, but not at any price. Count Kalnoky dwelt at length on the relations of Austro-Hungary with Germany, which he said were of the most cordial kind, as were those with Russia. The Government of the latter country had promised to uphold existing treaties, and had disclaimed any wish to encroach on Bulgaria or to change its relations without the co-agency of the Powers. The Austrian Government greatly valued English assurances, as showing that the support of England would be available if required. He hoped, however, for a peaceful solution of existing difficulties.

THE many friends of Sir Frank Souter will hear with sympathetic regret that he has sustained a severe bereavement in the sudden death in London of his third son, Mr. Hector Souter. A few months since, during Sir Frank's visit to England, his son undewent a difficult operation. When a boy he fell over the verandah of a bungalow at Breach Candy where his father was living, and received a severe injury in the back of the head which appears to have seriously affected his head ever since. An operation was considered necessary by eminent surgeons in order to ascertain whether there was any pressure upon the brain resulting from the accident. It was successfully performed, but it did not afford the expected relief, and it is believed that he must have succumbed in one of the fits to which he was subject. He was in his twenty-second year, and was about to come out to India to rejoin his father. He will be remembered by some of the older inhabitants of Bombay as having been, with his brother Willie, who is now in the Police, and serving at Ahmednagar, pages of honour to Lord Northbrook when he held his Chapter of the Star of India in 1872 in Bombay, and they were often seen together about that time on the old Bombay race-course, where their plucky riding was admired by many friends.

A NUMBER of distinguished personages left for England by the mail steamer Paramatta, which sailed away on Saturday afternoon. Among these were Mr. C. P. Ilbert, late Law-member of the Viceroy's Council, and Mrs. Ilbert and children. Lady Halen Blackwood and Miss Thynne, who too were among the homeward-bound passengers, came in company with Lady Reay from Government House, a little before 2 p.m. They got into the Government steam launch, which was in readiness for them, Lady Reay accompanying her guests on board the steamer. Sir West Ridgeway is another notability who has gone home by the mail boat, after having concluded his arduous labours in connectionw ith the Afghan Boundary Commission. Lady Roberts was also one of the passengers who left on Saturday.

A TELEGRAM from the Resident at Aden, dated 12th November, says:—"Egyptian Board of Health has imposed quarantine on arrivals from Calcutta. Quarantine at Aden according to precedent." A subsequent message says:—"Arrivals from Calcutta will be subject to quarantine at Perim."

THE Hon. W. W. Hunter has been appointed Vice-Chancellor of the University of Calcutta, in succession to the Hon. Mr. Ilbert, resigned.

THE Finance Committee are at present engaged in examining the Registrars of the Calcutta High Court, with a view to ascertaining where scope for reductions offers.

THE rules of the Punjab Polo Tournament are published. They mark an important and sensible departure in rule 29, which lays down that no player "shall ride at an adversary at any angle whatever. If wishing to ride off, he must range alongside, then close."

CLOSE upon twenty teams have entered for the Punjab Polo Tournament; and the prospects of good sport are, therefore, of the brightest.

WITH reference to the alleged scarcity in Cashmere, an up-country paper has excellent reason for stating that no scarcity need now be anticipated, as the rice crop, which has just been gathered and stored, is an unusually large one, and that, thanks to the satisfactory and timely arrangements made by the Governor of Cashmere, Dewan Lachman Dass, for the import of wheat and barley from India, the rabbi sowings are approaching completion.

IT is considered probable that in the event of General Allen Johnson's retirement from the Military Secretaryship at the India Office, he will be succeeded by Colonel Newmarch.

SIR LEPEL GRIFFIN goes to Urcha early next week, to preside at the ceremony of investing the Maharaja of that State with the title of "First of the Princes of Bundelkhand." The durbar is to be a big one.

THE Punjab Government have applied to the Government of India for an additional grant of Rs. 3,58,582 from Imperial revenues for the Murree-Kohala road; or if the Government of India cannot grant the whole sum, for at least Rs. 55,000—the amount required for immediate expenditure.

ON the representation of the local Government sanction has been accorded to Captain J. H. Taylor, R.N.R., the Master Attendant of the Madras port, continuing in the service of Government for a further period of two years from the 15th instant. Captain Taylor has closed his 63rd year.

MR. J. W. EDGAR is unable to rejoin his post as Commissioner of the Chittagong Division, and will probably retire from the service in March next, when his furlough expires. Mr. Edgar has spent twenty-one consecutive years in India, and up to March last he had taken no "long leave" of any description.

THE Commander-in-Chief arrived at Thayetmyo at three o'clock on the afternoon on the 11th inst., after a pleasant passage up the river, the weather being perfect. He was received by a guard-of-honour of the South Wales' Borderers, while a salute was fired from the fort. Sir Frederick Roberts then landed and paid a visit to the fort, and also saw one of the new Yarrow boats, one of the kind that were used in the Nile expedition; these boats are to be extensively employed in all future operations here. This one is manned by thirty Blue Jackets from the Ranger, which is now lying at Rangoon. The Chief, while on shore, also went round the hospital and saw all the sick.

SINCE the management of the Railway line, from Karachi to Kotri, has been taken over by the State, many complaints have from time to time reached the Karachi papers of inconvenience suffered by the public. No extra first-class carriages are kept at Kotri. Precautions against fire in the train are conspicuous by their absence. Captain Temple, B.C.S., Political Agent, Biluchistan, had his bedding burned under him in a first-class carriage by a spark from the engine a few nights ago, and got his feet scorched. Dr. Pollen, C.S., Deputy Commissioner, Thar and Parkar (who was obliged to travel second-class on account of want of proper first-class accommodation) also met with a similar accident between Karachi and Landi. His bedding took fire from a spark from the engine, and the flames were only extinguished at Landy by the station-master, the guard and the police, who were attracted to the carrage by Dr. Pollen's shouts. Again, while travelling between Kotri and Larkana, Mr. Westlake, C.S., had his blanket burnt under him by sparks from the engine. Surely there must be some remedy for this state of things.

WE gather from the Madras papers that the sea is making rapid encroachments in Cassemode and Royapuram. The whole of the wall in front of the house built by the late Mr. J. G. Coleman has been washed down, and also part of the stabling. The wall of the building between Mr Coleman's house and the Biden Home has also been washed away by the sea, and the road outside the Royapuram Station is fast disappearing. "Men who have lived over 20 years in Royapuram have never before seen the sea over this road; several other roads in Royapuram are partially under water. The fresh water pipe which run sin front of the Biden Home has been broken. The sea is also greatly encroaching in the native village of Cassemode. If, as predicted, this weather continues until next Saturday, Royapuram will cease to exist."

THE Madras Government have resolved to abolish the district jails of Rajamundry, Trichinopoly and Chittoor. Endeavours will be made to find opportunities of re-employing such of the employés as are fit for further service. As regards Rajamundry, all prisoners, including civil debtors and under-trial prisoners, will be transferred to the Central Jail. In consequence of the abolition of the Trichinopoly District Jail, the further construction of the new district jail buildings that has been sanctioned will be finally abandoned, with the exception of one block partly constructed, which will be completed and used for the accommodation of short-term prisoners. In respect to the Chitoor Jail, the Inspector-General of Jails has suggested to Government the detention there of prisoners who are sentenced to death.

THE Madras merchants are awaking to the necessity of suppressing the adulteration of Indian dyes with aniline. The extent to which the adulteration has spread within late years may be judged from the fact that while five years ago India imported only 3 million ounces, last year she imported 11½ million ounces of aniline. At a meeting the other day the Madras merchants resolved to petition the Government to pass an Act forbidding the introduction of aniline in indigo. It is not likely that a petition of this kind will be granted, however much the adulteration of Indian dyes may be rejected.

THE Lieutenant-Governor, in his resolution on the Bengal Forest Administration Report for 1885-86, expresses his satisfaction that its dimensions have been considerably curtailed, but he adds that "it is still open to the objection that it is rather a summary of details than a review of the broad facts of the year's administration." At the end of the year there was an area of 7,332,610 acres, or 11,457 square miles, under the superintendence of the department. These are classified as, reserved forests, 3,182,123 accres; protected forests, 1,419,845 acres; district forests 2,581,420 acres, and proposed reserves, not yet finally gazetted, 149,228 acres. The total quantity of timber removed from reserved forests was 6,563,686 cubic feet, and of fuel 13,424,779 cubic feet; while from the protected and district forests 535,892 cubic feet of timber and 5,378,275 of fuel were removed. This shows a considerable increase over the previous year under both heads, the increase in timber being chiefly due to the removal of sal logs in the Buxa and Orissa reserved forests, and the revival in the demand for both timber and fuel in the Sunderbuns. The financial results of the year are satisfactory. The receipts amount to Rs. 5,97,432, while the charges were Rs. 3,70,399, leaving a surplus of Rs. 2,27,033, or 38 per cent. of the gross revenue.

ONE of the great girders of the Hughli Bridge was successfully placed in position on Tuesday. The span is 420 feet long, and the girder is formed throughout of steel, weighing 1,200 tons. This is the longest cantilever span that has yet been constructed in India, although the great span of the Indus Bridge, at Sukkur, will be on even a more colossal scale. As may be supposed, the task of moving out the enormous girder, and of placing it in position, was no easy matter, and we are glad to learn that it was accomplished without a single hitch and in a wonderfully short space of time. The greatest credit is due to Mr. Bradford Leslie for the admirable manner in which this responsible part of the work was planned and carried out, as well as for the constant care and vigilance with which he has superintended all the arrangements. We understand that the second girder will be ready before the end of the cold season, and when it is placed, the Bridge will be completed.

THE Darjeeling residents mustered in unusual numbers on Tuesday to bid farewell to the Lieutenant-Governor, who is not likely to revisit the station. The Volunteers furnished a guard of honour, mounted and on foot, and their excellent band was present. At Kurseong there was a second Volunteer guard, scarcely less numerous. Some loyal friends at Siligori had illuminated the town, at which the special train arrived after nightfall. There was a striking demonstration at Sultanpur and Nowgong, the taste of the Rajshaye natives in the arrangement of triumphal arches, flowers, and plantain trees being proved conclusively. Sir Rivers Thompson was not allowed to remain in doubt as to the feelings with which his friends in the Rajshaye Division, European and native, regard his approaching departure.

ALTOGETHER about 400 chests of Oude indigo have been sold privately, making with the 246 chests sold at Monday's sale, 846 chests, or 2,500 maunds, the greater part of which was bought for America. The quality of these Oudes is much superior to that of last year, but the price realised was about Rs. 20 per maund less than the average priece for the same class of indigo last season, though about 3d. per lb. above the London July sale rates. The boiling samples from Bengal vary a good deal, but are not above the average, while some are inferior. The Behar samples are generally of full average quality, while some are decidedly superior. The sales of European indigo are not expected to begin for more than a week.

THE Ballaarat, which was delayed by the cyclone, arrived at Madras at 4 p.m. on the 10th inst. She first experienced unsettled weather on Sunday morning with heavy rain and squalls. The wind rapidly increasing in force from the north-west, and the barometer falling, Captain Tomlin concluded that a cyclone was passing ahead of the ship, and at 8 p.m. stood to the south-east. At 11 p.m., the weather improving, the ship returned to her course, but all Monday there was every appearance of a cyclone to the north-west. The weather growing rapidly worse with a heavy sea on, at 5 p.m. the ship again stood to the south-east. A strong gale blew from the west-north-west until midnight, when the wind shifted to south-west, with furious squalls. On Tuesday, at 2 a.m., the weather improved, and the Ballaarat again returned to her course, but encountered continued rain and squalls, with high confused seas from the north-west and north-east. At 5 p.m., the gale from the south-west was rapidly increasing, with a most lurid threatening sky, and the ship again stood to the south-east. At 11 p. m. the weather was rapidly improving, and the ship finally headed for Madras. Throughout the whole three days the commander of the Ballaarat considered that his ship was in the left hand semi-circle of a cyclone crossing the Bay of Bengal to the west-north-west.

IN regard to the Crole case, the Pioneer says:—"The Madras authorities long back forwarded a despatch to the Secretary of State, requesting permission to try Mr. Crole by Commission under the provisions of Act 37 of 1850, the Act 'for regulating inquiries into the behaviour of public servants. This proposal was based on the report drawn up by the notorious Mr. Thomas, as the result of his special mission to Madura, where Mr. Crole had been Collector. The Madras Government did not make any appeal to the Government of India for opinion or advice, as has been represented. On the contrary, they were careful to forward their despatch to Whitehall and its copy to Simla simultaneously, with the result that the former had practically a sufficient start to render effective action on the part of the Government of India impracticable, had they been disposed to take it. There is reason to believe that, under favouring conditions, they would have been found so disposed. The Madras Government, need it be added, were careful to conceal their action from the gentleman most concerned. It was a stab in the dark."

LORD CHARLES BERESFORD'S memorandum continues to be a fruitful source of public discussion at home. It has attracted a good deal of attention from military men, coming as it does, together with the memorandum issued by Lord Wolseley as the mouthpiece of the Duke of Cambridge. Our "Only General" revives the allegations of the celebrated minute, published just after the Egyptian campaign, that our regimental officers are exceedingly incapable, or, as this document phrases it, "evince considerable lack of information as to their duties."

LORD DUFFERIN IN BOMBAY.

By the exercise of a good deal of that make-believe which enabled the Marchioness to regale herself with orange peel and water as if it were the rarest of vintages, and by the shutting of eyes, in accordance with an innocent official fiction, to the fact that the Viceroy and a very considerable suite had passed from one end of the city to the other three days previously, the Viceroy's landing at the Apollo Bunder on Saturday was celebrated as his first visit to Bombay since his Excellency's arrival in India as Viceroy elect nearly two years ago. In almost every respect the arrangements recalled that memorable occasion. The hour of landing was the same, and on the crowded pier head the assembly of Government officials and of the leaders of local society was martialled in precisely the same fashion, and according to rules of precedence which alter not, though Viceroys come and go. Through the thoroughfares within the Fort the same flags were displayed in honour of his Excellency, neither more nor less bunting being visible than when Lord Dufferin drove to Parel as the guest of Sir James Fergusson—this time the Viceroy enjoys Lord Reay's hospitality at Walkeshwar—and to the rear of the troops lining the roads was massed a dense throng of people, the crossways being blocked with hundreds of vehicles. As soon as the Clive was signalled, shortly before three, the Apollo Bunder became a scene of increasing bustle, and when the white-hulled vessel, steaming slowly in, had reached the Government moorings, the enclosures were filled with an eagerly expectant gathering of Europeans and natives, whilst a multitide of the wearers of the puggaree completely blocked the pathways leading to the scene of the arrival. As the Clive made her way leisurely into the harbour, the outgoing steamer for England and Australia passed the Viceroy's vessel. Both were dressed in flags from stem to stern in common with the principal steamers in the port, and the Paramatta had on board Lady Helen Blackwood, the daughter of the Viceroy, whom she accompanied to India. No sooner had the Clive taken up its position opposite the Apollo Bunder than it was boarded by Captain Hamilton, Aide-de-Camp to the Governor; and a number of postal peons took on board huge packets of newspapers and letters which had already accumulated during the Viceroy's brief absence of barely forty-eight hours. Captain Lloyd, of H. M. S. Briton and Captain Burt of the gunboat Woodlark, also hastened to the Clive, to be followed later on by the Military Secretary to the Governor and Sir William Wedderburn, the Chief Secretary to the Bombay Government. The Viceregal party, preparatory to coming ashore, first divested itself of what Ali Baba terms its "halo," the scarlet coated domestics of the Governor-General being discharged down one gangway into a hulk, with mountains of baggage, as the visitors to the Viceroy ascended on the other side of the ship.

Remembering that the Viceroy, thirty years ago, undertook a four months' voyage and navigated his own schooner yacht through the many perils of the northern seas, it would have been just as reasonable to have credited his Excellency with a desire to find rest and recreation on the element he loves so well as to have sought, as imaginative spirits did, for some profound political purpose as the motive of the voyage down the western coast. The Viceroy's intended visit to the ruins of the capital of the Indo-Portugese Empire having to be abandoned, the trip resolved itself into purely a brief pleasure excursion.

> We reached eternal winter's dread domain
> And, baffled, quickly abdicate their reign," wrote Lord Dufferin of that famous voyage in the high latitudes the story of which he has so pleasantly related. His last week's seaward journey was a much more modest achievement. A southward run for something less than two hundred miles, one or two picnic parties ashore, a shikareing expedition not overfruitful of results, an archæological excursion into Angria's notorious stronghold, and a leisurely cruise back again, over the blue waters of the Arabian sea, scarcely ever beyond the sight of the verdure clad Ghats—such is a summary of the performances of the distinguished voyagers on the Clive.

Viziadroog was reached by the Clive about half-past eight on Thursday morning. Soon after the arrival, Lord Dufferin, accompanied by Mr. Arthur Crawford, went ashore gunning, but it is yet too early in the season and little or no opportunity was given to his Excellency, who is an expert shot. The rest of the party went about inspecting the fort. In the afternoon, they intended to go up the creek as far as the Collector's Bungalow; but it rained at the time, and the party were prevented from leaving the ship, to which they had returned on the afternoon. On Friday, his Excellency remained on board despatching public business, while the others went out shooting up the creek. In the afternoon, his Excellency journeyed to the ruins of the fort and sailed up the creek to the dock, returning on board the Clive about sunset, while some among the rest of the party amused themselves with photographing the scenes about them. About 10 p.m., on Friday, after dinner, the Clive weighed anchor for the return voyage and came up slowly. The party might perhaps have gone to Rutnagherry if Theebaw had not been there. The trip was not a very pleasaut one; it rained from Thursday afternoon, and there was a heavy swell. On the return voyage, the Viceroy caught a cold from the effects of which he was suffering when he landed next day.

Angria's fort, from which the Mahratta pirate made his periodical descents upon the shipping and the towns along the coast, is by no means unworthy of a visit. Besides its historical associations and the fact of the town being one of the original Konkan settlements, the expedition by which the fortress was reduced is not able as being the solitary occasion in which Clive gave the benefit of his genius to the Government of Bombay. The recent Selections from the Mahratta papers in the Secretariat have thrown much interesting light on Clive's connexion with this important episode in Bombay history, and some of the despatches selected by Mr. Forrest are dated from the very harbour in which the vessel named after the ill-fated English general has, within the past week, been lying unmolested. The description of the neighbourhood given in the Bombay Gazetteer thus deals with the more not able features of the fort and its history:—

Never a place of much trade or wealth, the whole interest of the village centres in its fort. On the neck of rock land that forms the south side of the bay, Vijaydurg, one of the best and most Muhammadan of Konkan fortresses, though not very striking from the sea side, rises grandly about 100 feet above the river. The walls, of very great strength and protected by twenty-seven bastions, rise, at their highest point, into a great round tower. On the west breached in several places by the sea, they are over their whole length loosened and ruined by trees and creepers. Their triple line of fortifications encloses about twenty acres overrun with bushes, but with some good wells and several large habitable buildings. The fort is probably old, enlarged under the Bijapur kings, and about the middle of the seventeenth century, much strengthened by Shivaji, to whom it owes its finest features, the triple line of walls, the numerous towers, and the massive interior buildings. About forty years later (1698), the pirate chief Angria made it the capital of a territory stretching for about 150 miles along the coast and from thirty to sixty miles inland. For more than fifty years, Angria's pirates were a terror to all traders, and the English were forced to keep a special fleet to act against them. In April 1717 their ships of war carrying a considerable body of troops, sailed against Gheria. An attempt to breach the wall failed, the storming party was driven back with great loss, and the fleet forced to withdraw. Three years later a joint Portuguese and English fleet under Mr. Walter Brown destroyed sixteen of Angria's vessels, but made no impression on the fort. In the same year (April 1720) the English ship Charlotte was attacked, and after a gallant defence, her powder having run down, she was caught and taken into Gheria. In 1724 a Dutch fleet from Batavia attacked the place, but with no better success. In 1736 Angria's vessels took the richly laden English East Indiaman Derby, the armed ship Restoration of twenty guns, and several other vessels of less note. In 1738 in an action between Angria's fleet and Commodore Bagwell, Angria's fleet fled up the Rajapur creek and escaped with little loss. Besides several captures from the Dutch, Angria about this time took the French forty-gun ship Jupiter, with 400 slaves. In 1749, Mr. (afterwards Sir William) James was attacked by Angria's fleet, and after a hard fight, drove them to Gheria, pursuing them and causing great loss. Next year, in spite of their defeat, they were bold enough to attack Commodore Lisle in command of a fleet of several vessels, among them the Vigilant of sixty-four and the Ruby of fifty guns. Again, in, February 1754, attacking three Dutch ships of fifty, thirty-six and eighteen guns, they burnt the two large ones and took the third. Elated with this success, Angria built several vessels, set two large ship on the stocks, and boasted he should soon be master of the Indian seas. For long the Peshwa and the Bombay Government planned Angria's ruin. At last, in 1755, it was settled that in the next fair season the Peshwa's troops should attack him from land and the British by sea. At the close of the year (1855, Dec. 22) Commodore James was sent to survey Gheria fort, then thought as strong as Gibraltar. He found that ships could get within point-blank shot; that on shore guns could be carried and a diversion made from the tops of two hills; and that the fort was crowded with unprotected buildings. The place was surprisingly unlike what he had heard. The Bombay Government were fortunate in having in their harbour a Royal squadron under Admiral Watson and a strong detachment of troops under Lieutenant-Colonel (afterwards Lord) Clive. On the 7th April 1756, the fleet of twelve men-of-war, six of the Royal and six of the Company's navy, with 800 European and 600 native troops, and five bomb vessels with a company of artillery, and four Maratha grabs and forty gallivats, sailed from Bombay. Sending a few vessels ahead to block the harbour, the fleet arrived off Gheria on the eleventh. The Maratha land force, for some time a field, was camped against Gheria. Terrified by the strength of the British fleet, Tulaji Angria, leaving the fort in his brother's charge, surrendered to the Maratha general. Hearing that the Maratha general had extorted from Tulaji an order for the delivery of the fortress, Admiral Watson, on the next morning (12th), summoned the fort to be surrendered. Getting no answer, the fleet, with the afternoon sea breeze, forming two divisions, sailed each in line of battle ship covering a bomb ketch, and protecting the column of smaller vessels from the enemy's fire. They passed the point into the river, and under a heavy fire anchoring fifty yards off the north fortifications, battered them from 150 pieces of canon. Angria's ships, were drawn up under the fort, all fastened together, and a shell setting one on fire, the whole were burnt —one ship of 74 guns, eighty grabs of from 20 to 30 guns and sixty gallivats. (Low's Indian Navy, I. 136.) [Of Angria's ships, Dr. Ives (1755) writes: 'They are not unlike the Tartans of the Mediterranean, only a great deal lower; they carry two guns in the bow and vast numbers of men. Their music is a plain brass tube, shaped like a trumpet at both ends and about ten feet long, and a drum called a tom-tom, a skin stretched on a large shallow brass pan, on which they strike with two large sticks and make an amazing noise. Among them are two ketches which they call grabs.' (Ives' Voyages, 43). Several of the gallivats had blue or green or white pendants like the Portuguese at their mast heads, and one had a white flag with a red cross in the middle. (Ditto(80.)] Another shell set fire to the buildings in the fort, and the tremendous cannonade silenced the fort guns. Still the commander held out. Learning that the fort was to be handed over to the Marathas, Colonel Clive landed and held the ground between the Peshwa's army and the fort. Next morning the Admiral again summoned the fort to surrender. The commandant asked for time to consult his brother. A respite was granted, till in the afternoon, as no answer came, the bombardment was re-opened. By five o'clock the garrison surrendered, and Colonel Clive, marching in, took possession. Though the masonry was destroyed the rock defences were so perfect, that a determined garrison need not have yielded to any sea attack Fifteen hundred prisoners were taken; eight Englishmen and three Dutchmen were rescued; and plunder, amounting, besides stores, to £125,000 (Rs. 12,50,000), was divided among the captors. The ruin of Angria's navy was completed by the destruction of two sixty-gun ships on the stocks. Four of the Company's vessels and a detachment of 600 European and native troops were left to guard the harbour and fort. Two miles from the fort, on the same side of the river, is an old dock, hollowed out of the rock by Angria, 355 feet long and 227 in the broadest part, and said to have been able to hold vessels of 500 tons. (Waddington's Report in Asiatic Journal, IX. 123.) In 1819 the bottom of the dock, sloping gently upwards from the entrance, was thick with mud and sand. The gateway 23 feet broad below and 37 above, stood open without gates. Of the walls parts on the south and east were cut in the rock; the rest was of masonry in good repair. From the south-east corner ran a stone-built water channel. (Lieut. B. Domiciette, 9th June, 1819; Public Diaries 432 of; 1819, 1055.) Though nearly choked with mud the stone face and entrance may still be seen. There was also a small building yaad and a mart houfe. On the creec two miles below the dock is (1862) a strong well built Martello tower called the Mitatya Buruj. A little way from the fort, on the Vaghotan road, is the temple of Rameshvar, probably 100 years old, built by Gangadhar Banu, a brother of Nana Fadnis (1720-1800.) An ordinary temple with a large rest-house lying deep in a glen, its chief interest is the approach about 250 yards long, cut through rock fifty feet deep. The idol, a four-armed figure seated on a bull, is of solid silver, said to weigh at hundredweight.

THE VICEROY AND THE CORPORATION.

The Apollo Bunder, where the Viceroy was to land, was on Saturday the centre of attraction. Here in a spacious marquee, decorated in a style with which the public has by this time grown familiar, was presented a spectacle of rare brilliancy, to which the presence of a goodly number of loyal Chiefs greatly contributed. They had come to Bombay specially to pay their homage to her Majesty's representative in India, and, as they stood at the bunder-head, with their followers and attendants, they formed a very interesting group While some of the Chiefs had made a rather profuse display of "barbaric pearl and gold," there were a few whose dress was characterized by an almost austere simplicity, except that there was, perhaps, a precious necklace to distinguish the wearers from the crowd. By the side of princes in brocade and velvet were high military and civil officers, whose uniforms added to the splendour of the scene. All the personages of distinction had congregated in a chosen spot near the landing steps, whence they could obtain a fine view of the harbour and its shipping, some of the vessels looking quite gay with decorations in honour of the occasion. In the centre of the marquee a space was allotted for members of the Corporation, who had appeared there with a loyal address of welcome, and in the same enclosure was to be seen a large gathering representative of all classes of the community. Among those present were the following:—H. E. the Commander-in-Chief, the Hon. M. Melvill, their Highnesses the Maharaja Holkar of Indore, the Maharaja of Kolhapore, the Maharaja of Rutlam, the Rana of Porebunder, the Nabob of Cambay, with his Dewan, Mr. Shamrao N. Laud, the Nabob of Janjeera, the Thakore Saheb of Limri, the Thakore Saheb of Wadwan, the Pant Sachu of Bhore, the Chief of Jamkhandi, Prince Samatsingji of Palitana, the Earl of Shaftesbury, the Bishop of Bombay, Sir Charles Sargent, Chief Justice of Bombay, Mr. Justice Jardine, Mr. Justice Scott, Mr. Justice Birdwood, Mr. Justice Nanabhai Haridas, Sir Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy, the Hon. Rao Saheb Mundlik, the Hon. F. Forbes Adam, Sir Frank Souter, Commissioner of Police, Mr. F. L. Charles, Municipal Commissioner, Mr. Propert and Mr. G. F. under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel S. Jackson, numbered about 207 rank and file, with band. The Officers present were Major H. H. Swan, Captains G. E. Even (Adjutant), R. L. Trevethick, Lieutenants C. Newborn, J. Hartley and T. B. Bashford. Under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel L. H. Bayley, the Bombay Volunteers took up the lines as far as the Sasson's Institute, mustering 312 strong, with band. The Officers present were Major F. S. Hore, Major M. R. Wyer, Captains H. Hodgkinson (Adjutant), R. S. Brown, E. R. Freeborn, J. Baird, C. H. B. Forbes and E. F. Nicholson, Lieutenants G. Lund, R. Redfern, H. Stead, J. M. English, F. A. Savage, T. J. Bennett, F. C. Brewin. The B. B. and C. I. Railway Volunteers came next, with a strength of about 120 rank and file, with band, under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel H. Hargrave. Major E. S. Luard, Captain W. S. Birdwood, Captains G. S. Spencer, F. C. Turner and Lieutenant A. Rule were the officers of corps present. The Bombay Mounted Rifles took on the lines as far as the University Gardens, under the command of Captain F. A. Little, about fifty troopers showing up with Lieutenants H. R. King and B. Nicholson at their head. From the University Gardens the Poona Horse were stationed, commanded by Lieutenant W. E. Carthew-Yourstoun; the detachment numbered 78 in rank and file. The lines were prolonged as far as the Queen's Statue by the Marine Battalion and the 24th N. I. The former, under Colonel G. F. Beville, mustered 250 rank and file, with band, with Lieutenant Colonel C. D. Payne, 2nd in Command, Brigade Surgeon C. Macdowall and Lieutenants C. H. Kemball, C. M. Merriman, and G. Brownrigg. Lieutenant-Colonel C. P. Newport was in command of the 24th N. I., which was 405 in rank and file, with band, and the following officers: Major W. J. Morse, Surgeon-Major J. H. Hordwell, and Lieutenants W. F. Cahusac, Adjutant, S. H. Pelly and H. Clowes. Before the Viceroy landed, Colonel B. H. Pottinger, R. A., commanding the District, rode up the lines inspecting the troops and the volunteers as they formed up in their respective places. Colonel Pottinger was accompanied by his staff, viz., Captain G. C. Roupell, D.A.A.G., Major R. Reilly, A. Q. M. G., and Captain G. F. MacMahon, D. A. Q. M. As Lord Dufferin slowly drove on his way to Government House, he was warmly welcomed by the crowds, which formed up in a dense mass behind the troops and thronged the houses overlooking the route.

Was following was the field state of the Bombay Volunteer Rifle Corps on Saturday :—

AT GOVERNMENT HOUSE.

After leaving the bunder, the Viceregal cortege drove along Rampart Row, in which the Esplanade Hotel, the Municipal Offices, and other principal buildings, were decorated with flags, bannerets, and bunting, and turning by the General Post Offices, into Queen's Road, drove up to Chowpatty, where a large crowd of natives had collected. The Viceroy was cheered when recognised along the line of the route, and gracefully acknowledged the compliment. Driving up the private sea-side road to Government House, the cortege entered the premises at 6 p. m. precisely. The large bungalow, which was under repair at the time of the arrival of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, had been fitted up and prepared for Lord Dufferin's accommodation. It was brilliantly illuminated before the arrival of the carriages and the Countess of Dufferin, Lord and Lady Reay, and Lord and Lady Huntley, guests at Government House, were awaiting its approach. A guard of honour, consisting of 100 rank and file of the Marine Battalion, with band, was drawn up opposite the bungalow, and presented arms as the Viceroy's carriage, drawn by four horses with outriders, came up. With the Viceroy in the first carriage were Lord William Beresford, Military Secretary, and Captain Durand, Aide-de-Camp to his Excellency, and Colonel the Hon. N. G. Lyttelton, Military Secretary to H. E. the Governor. The procession, which was preceded and followed by sowars of the Governor's Body-Guard, consisted of four carriages, in the second of which were Mr Mackenzie Wallace, Private Secretary to the Viceroy, Mr. Durand, Foreign Secretary, Captain Gordon, Aide-de-Camp to the Viceroy, and Captain Phayre, Aide-de-Camp to H. E. the Governor. In the third carriage were Mr. Evans Gordon, attached to the Foreign Department, the Hon. Terence Blackwood, the Viceroy's son, and Captain Herbert, Aide-de-Camp to the Governor. The fourth carriage contained Dr. Findlay, Surgeon, Mr. McFarren, Assistant Private Secretary to the Viceroy, and Russaldar Roopsing, native Aide-de-Camp to the Governor. Lord Reay, advancing to the head of the steps of the main entrance, received the Viceroy, and conducted him to the sitting room, which has been newly furnished since the repairs to the large bungalow. Lord Dufferin was suffering from a cold, and it was uncertain whether he would be permitted to hold the levée at the Secretariat.

THE LEVEE AT THE SECRETARIAT.

The levée to be held in Bombay by his Excellency the Viceroy was fixed for half-past nine at the Secretariat on Saturday. In the memory of the oldest inhabitant, it was the first evening levée held in Bombay; but his Excellency's other engagements during this week probably left no alternative, but the selection for the levée of an unusually late hour on the day of his arrival. After the levée their Excellencies the Viceroy and the Countess of Dufferin were to hold a drawing-room at the same place. The whole of the Secretariat premises, as well as the approaches to the buildings, were tastefully illuminated for the occasion, but the heat from the large gas-chandeliers rendered the atmosphere in the upper rooms almost unbearable. A guard of honour of 100 rank and file of the Bombay Volunteer Rifle Corps, with band, under the command of Captain Brown, assisted by Lieuts. Lund and English, paraded in the western compound of the Secretariat. The Governor's Band played a selection of music during the time occupied by the presentations at the levée and the drawing-room. The arrangements made for the accommodation of the gentlemen who attended on Saturday in large numbers were different from those adopted at previous levées held in Bombay. Instead of being allowed to go straight up into the ante-rooms adjoining the Council-hall, in which the presentations were to be made, the gentlemen were turned by a European police officer into the ill-ventilated rooms on the ground-floor, occupied by the establishment of the Income-tax Department, on the ground that the corridors through which all would have to pass to the reception-hall were already filled by those who had preceded. The ladies who came for presentation at the drawing-room were led upstairs into the first of the ante-rooms, two of which were reserved for their accommodation. The atmosphere of the ground-floor rooms which, for a short while, was far from pleasant, became unendurable on a closer acquaintance, and compelled the gentlemen who were huddled up therein to force their way upstairs in the face of all the protests which the police officer could bring to his aid. The hour fixed for the levée had long passed by, and yet the door of the reception-hall had not been opened, the consequence being that there was excessive overcrowding in the corridors and the ante-room immediately adjoining the reception-hall. It was not until after 10 p.m. that the door in question was thrown open and the presentations commenced. But the Viceroy was not there. The cold which his Excellency had caught on the voyage from Viziadroog to Bombay had compelled him, under medical advice, to stay at Government House. Lord Reay accordingly held the levée on behalf of the Viceroy, who much to his regret was prevented from holding it in person, in consequence of his indisposition. His Excellency the Governor stood on a low dais erected on the eastern side of the Hall, with the members of his own staff and that of the Viceroy standing behind him, while the gentlemen having the private entrées stood on the floor facing the Governor. Sowars of the Body-guard, with drawn swords in their hands, stood at the entrances and behind the dais. The following is a list of the gentlemen who were presented :—

THE VICEROY'S PROGRAMME.

Last night the Viceroy was still suffering from his indisposition and remained at Government House, though the Countess of Dufferin, accompanied by Lord and Lady Reay and a number of their guests at Walkeshwar, attended evening service at the Cathedral, where the Bishop of Bombay preached the sermon. To-day it had been arranged that the Viceroy should receive visits of ceremony from the native Chiefs, whilst in the afternoon he was to attend a party at Readymoney House, and in the evening to witness the amateur performance of "Home" at the Gaiety Theatre. We understand that the Viceroy instead of fulfilling these Engagements will have a quiet day at Government House, receiving the Rajahs to-morrow. We are also requested to announce that in consequence of the temporary sickness of his Excellency the amateur dramatic performance will, at Lord Dufferin's request, be postponed until to-morrow evening. This re-arrangement of the programme necessitates the abandonment of the trip to Poona, arranged for Tuesday. His Excellency was to have left the Bori Bunder Station at 9 p.m. and to have returned from the Deccan capital at 3 a.m. on Wednesday, sleeping in the train and reaching Bombay at nine in the morning, in order to preside at the distribution of prizes at the School of Art the same evening. The Elephants caves are to be visited on Thursday morning, and later in the day the Viceroy is to inspect the harbour, attending the party at Mazagon Castle in the evening. On Friday his Excellency brings the visit to Bombay to a close and leaves for Nandgaon. The following notification was issued on Saturday in an Extraordinary Government Gazette, but the latter arrangements will of course cancel the directions it contains :—

His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Earl of Dufferin, K.P., G.M.S.I., G.C.B., G.C.M.G., Viceroy and Governor-General of India, accompanied by his Excellency the Governor of Bombay, will leave Bori Bunder Station at 9 a.m. on the 16th November and will pay a short visit to Poona, travelling by special train.

2. His Excellency the Viceroy will arrive at the Poona Station at 2 p.m., and will be received by all the Civil and Military authorities present in Poona. On alighting at the Poona station, his Excellency will receive an address from the Poona Municipal Commissioners. All due military honours will be paid to his Excellency under instructions to be issued by the Military Department. The Commissioner of Police, Bombay, the Police authorities of Thana and Poona, and the Superintendent of the Railway Police will make all the necessary arrangements to maintain order.

3. The Collector of Poona will issue tickets for the admission to the Railway Station of ladies and non-officials as far as the accommodation will permit, and the Railway authorities will make the necessary arrangements at the station.

5. At 3-30 p.m. his Excellency will proceed to Government House, Ganesh Khind, after visiting which his Excellency will drive through the City of Poona, entering by the Lakti-pul. His Excellency will thence proceed by main Narayen Pet Street, by Apa Balwant Chauki: north of Mandai and Shanvar Wada, past Nana Fuduis Wada to the site of Budhwar Palace. His Excellency will thence drive to Moti Chowk through Kaped Alley, thence by main Aditwar Peth Road to Daruwala's Bridge, and by Rastia's Wada, Narpalgive's Police Station and Gadi Thul Road to his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief's house. At 6 p. m., at the Council Hall, His Excellency will receive addresses from the Poona Sarvanjanik Sabha and from the Dekkhan Education Society.

9. His Excellency will take his departure by special train at 3 a.m., of the 7th instant, arriving at Bori Bunder at 8 a. m. Both departure and arrival will be considered private.

THE TALBOT DIVORCE CASE.

In this case the petitioner Herbert Popry Talbot seeks dissolution of his marriage with the respondent, Maude Allen Talbot, on the ground of her adultery with the co-respondent, Charles Taylor Robinson. The petition charges divers acts of adultery between the respondent and co-respondent at Mussoorie in these provinces in the months of June, July and August 1885, and at Allahabad in October and November of the same year, and in February and March 1886. The respondent has filed no answer, traversing the allegations in the petition; nor has the co-respondent, and neither of them appears in person, though the latter is represented by Mr. Strachey who, in the course of the trial, intimated to me that he had no instructions to cross-examine the petitioner or contest the suit. I must, therefore, take it that this case is not seriously defended, and it only remains for me, as briefly as I can, to see whether the petitioner has shown himself to be entitled to the relief, claimed by him in his petition.

Four issues have been fixed by me, which, to put them shortly, are: (1st) Did the respondent and co-respondent commit all or any of the acts of adultery charged against them. (2nd) Did the petitioner in any way connive at, or contribute to, such act or acts. (3rd) Has he condoned the same. (4th) Is this suit brought in collusion between the petitioner and respondent and co-respondent, or either of them. It will be convenient, in view of the opinion I have formed on the case, at once to dispose of the last three issues. Assuming for the moment that adultery between the respondent and co-respondent is established, I am quite clear that there is no pretence for a suggestion that the petitioner either connived at or conduced to it. On the contrary, it is obvious that he was scrupulously careful in watching over his wife; and when he allowed her to go to Mussoorie in May 1885, it was to reside there under the protection of her father. Equally clear am I, upon an examination of all the evidence, that the petitioner at no time condoned, in the proper legal sense, any act or acts of adultery committed by his wife with the co-respondent. It is proved to my satisfaction that, until the 24th of May 1886, when the criminatory letter of the co-respondent to the respondent was taken from her hand by the petitioner at Lucknow, he never fully realised, nor was he completely convinced, that the relations between his wife and Captain Robinson were of an immoral character. The materials at his command were, after all, only of a suspicious kind, and his wife had made no statements or admissions that in my judgment could fairly or properly be regarded as amounting to confessions of infidelity. I think, therefore, that whatever forgiveness the petitioner extended to his wife at Mussoorie in September 1885, and at Allahabad in the November following, was not extended to her with the full knowledge of all the particulars, or under the belief that she had committed adultery: on the contrary, my strong impression is that the petitioner on both occasions was most anxious to believe that matters had not reached that extreme point. Moreover, in regard to the paper signed on the 11th November 1885 by the respondent, it shows, on the face of it, that the petitioner was only forgiving his wife upon conditions which, if broken—and they undoubtedly were broken—the original offence would revive. Therefore, upon these facts, I have no hesitation in holding that the third issue must be answered in the petitioner's favour.

In regard to the 4th, I was at first in some doubt, as there were one or two matters, among others the service of the petition and the almost contemporaneous departure of the respondent for England, which to my mind required explanation. This, however, has now very fully and frankly been given by Mr. Talbot, whose truth I see no reason to doubt any more upon this point than upon any other part of his evidence. The 4th issue also is decided in his favour. The sole question, then, that remains is: Has it been established to my satisfaction that the respondent and the co-respondent on any occasions, or even one single occasion, that is enough, committed adultery. It is obvious that proof in case of this description must often be exceedingly difficult to obtain for women who deceive their husbands and still live on with them, and the men who assist them in doing so are sure to adopt the best measures they can to avoid being found out: so it is next to impossible to get any direct evidence. In the present case, however, I have qua the respondent her confession on the 24th of May 1886

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE
THE ORIGINAL and ONLY GENUINE.

ADVICE TO INVALIDS.—If you wish to obtain quiet, refreshing sleep, free from headache, relief from pain and anguish, to calm and assuage the weary aching of protracted disease invigorate the nervous media, and regulate the circulating systems of the body, you will provide yourself with that marvellous remedy discovered by Dr. J. Collis Browne (late Army Medical Staff), to which he gave the name of CHLORODYNE, and which is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.

CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.

CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms.

CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.,

From Symes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists Medical Hall, Simla, January 5, 1880, to J. T. Davenport, Esq., 33, Great Russell-street, Bloomsbury, London. Dear Sir,—We embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the widespread reputation this justly esteemed medicine, Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne, has earned for itself, not only in Hindostan, but all over the East. As a remedy of general utility, we much question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and judging from their sale, we fancy their sojourn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances ad infinitum of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne in Diarrhœa and Dysentery, Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy, and as a general sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Choleraic Diarrhœa, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne's is A DELIBERATE BREACH OF FAITH ON THE PART OF THE CHEMIST TO PRESCRIBER AND PATIENT ALIKE. We are sir, faithfully yours, Symes & Co., Members of the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, His Excellency the Viceroy's chemists.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated that Dr. J. Collis Browne was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of Chlorodyne; that the story of the defendant Freeman has been deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See "The Times," July 13, 1864.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle.

CAUTION.—Beware of Piracy and Imitation.

The BHOWNAGAR GONDAL RAILWAY COMPANY,

The exclusive right of advertising at all the Railway Stations belonging to these four Companies, is prepared to contract with parties desirous of posting Notices or Advertisement on the lines.

The announcements may be in English or in any of the Native Languages.

The advantages which Railway Stations present as a means of bringing intimations of all kind before the public have been demonstrated in England by the extensive use which is made by Advertisers, of every station, great and small, along every one in the United Kingdom.

INSURANCE COMPANIES, SHIPPING COMPANIES HOTEL KEEPERS, MERCHANTS, TRADERS and others who wish to force their business on the notice of the public, all alike value the privilege of Railway Station Advertising.

And as nearly ALL TRAVELLERS ARRIVING IN INDIA NOW LAND AT BOMBAY and proceed by the G. I. P. or B. B. and C. I. Railways to their destinations, Placards exhibited at the different stations on those lines are every day becoming more and more valuable as means of bringing the Advertisers business to the notice of the public.

On the NIZAM STATE RAILWAY the Cantonment of Secunderabad, as is well known, contains the largest military garrison in India, a garrison comprising over 5,000 British and native troops. Contiguous to it is the Cantonment of Bolaram, garrisoned by two Regiments and one Battery of the Hyderabad Contingent, all officered by Europeans. South of Secunderabad, about four miles, are the suburbs of Hyderabad containing the Nizam's Regular troops, about 5,000 in number, officered mostly by Europeans, besides a large civil population. It would manifestly be a source of profit to firms to advertise at these Stations, the most important of which are Secunderabad, Hyderabad Gangawaram, and Tandur.

RATES.

Boards not exceeding 2 feet long and 2 feet broad Re. 1 per month. For every additional square foot annas 2.

Thus a firm exhibiting a board, say 4 feet square, will have the advantage of having their business Advertisement read by thousands of passengers on one station platform for the trifling monthly expenditure of Re. 1. Parties advertising on six stations or more will be allowed a discount of ten per cent.; on twelve stations or more twenty-five per cent.

Special arrangements for long periods.

The boards to be delivered at the "BOMBAY GAZETTE" OFFICE, whence they will be sent by the Lessee to the various stations selected by the Advertiser. In the event of the contract terminating, the boards will be brought back to Bombay at the expense and risk of the Advertiser.

Advertisers can select the stations, on the four lines at which they wish their Placards posted, and may advertise for any period that may be agreed on. The charges have been fixed on an extremely moderate scale to encourage Advertisers to make a liberal use of the new means now offered of making announcements known to the public.

Placards, according to the taste of Advertisers may be printed at moderate charges in English or any of the Native languages at the "BOMBAY GAZETTE" Press. Estimates on application.

JOHN BRINSMEAD & SONS'

GOLD MEDAL PIANOFORTES,

Entirely new construction throughout, including the recent improvements producing so elastic a touch that all gradations, from the most subdued whisper to the greatest fortissimo passage, can be accomplished with delightful effect.

Times of India March 1886.

BRONSMEAD'S PIANOS.—The extreme simplicity combined with the obvious efficiency of Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons' new patent method of securing the wires of their pianos, excites a feeling of surprise that it should not have been thought of and adopted before, rather than one of wonder at the ingenuity of the inventor. This, however, does not detract in any way from the intrinsic value of the improvement, which if it fulfils the results expected of it, and we are inclined to believe that it will, cannot fail to commend itself more particularly to residents of remote mofussil stations where the visits of the piano tuner are few and far between. Messrs. Marcks and Co., Ld., the sole agents for the patentees, guarantee that the pianos constructed on the improved principle will not get out of tune in twelve months, but as the invention is not yet six months old, it is manifest that their confidence must be based on something other than experience. Every one is familiar with the way in which the wires have hitherto been fastened round pins fixed tightly in the wooden sounding board and tuned by turning the pins with a key.

After inspecting Messrs. John Brinsmead's piano with their patent improvement, we too feel convinced of the impossibility of the tension giving out at this point, which has always been the weak one, while the delicacy and purity of tone for which these makers are justly famous are as conspicuous as ever,
